

Author Marian Jordan's new book provides comfort to women when their life has unmet expectations

Nashville, Tenn., July 28, 2009

Every girl has dreams of their future. They want the fairytale life so they daydream about the perfect house, car, marriage, career and the list goes on. However, what is a girl to do whenever her "list" doesn't pan out? After all this is not how life was supposed to be.

Marian Jordan, author of Wilderness Skill for Women and Sex and the City Uncovered, releases her new title The List this September. She discusses how women should deal when life takes unexpected turns. Marian gives women insight on how to embrace life without having unrealistic expectations. She explains to women they need to find themselves in order to fulfill their dreams and aspirations.

Marian is the founder of Redeemed Girl Ministries, showing girls of all ages how to apply God's truth and promises to their individual circumstances. She lives in Houston and has just completed her master's degree at Southwestern Seminary.

The List will be available September 1, 2009 at your local bookstore.
